Abstract:

The JOSHA Team is very pleased to share with you information about our second Demetrios Prize 2019. For the categories BACHELOR, MASTER and DOCTORAL thesis the International Academy of Science, Humanities and Arts (IASHA e.V.) supported by the Biothera Foundation will select 3 theses in each category and award a prize of € 500 each. Our editors will select the winners. The manuscripts of the winners will be published in the Journal of Science, Humanities, and Arts - JOSHA, with a unique DOI for each paper. Theses in either GERMAN, ENGLISH, FRENCH or SPANISH may be submitted. Bachelor, Master, and doctoral theses should be submitted by mail to admin@josha-archive.org until June 15, 2019. The "Journal of Science, Humanities, and Arts – JOSHA" has been initiated to create a novel internet platform to access the broad diversity of important discoveries and creativity in the fields of Science, Humanities, and Arts. At JOSHA we believe, that "Knowledge that is not communicated is wasted knowledge"

JOSHA JOURNAL

The International Academy of Sciences, Humanities and Arts, IASHA, is the editor of the Journal of Sciences, Humanities and Arts - JOSHA.

JOSHA is an open access, multidisciplinary and multilingual journal for access to a wide variety of important works in the fields of science, humanities and the arts. At JOSHA, we believe that "knowledge that is not communicated is lost knowledge". Therefore, we encourage students, researchers, and artists from around the world to publish their work with JOSHA.

Our first issue was published in December 2014 and, in the meantime, we have published 5 volumes, with 17 issues and more than 250 articles (May 2018). Our distribution size currently includes more than 400,000 views and more than 300,000 downloads. Our authors and readers range from undergraduate and graduate students, as well as doctoral candidates, to artists, Nobel laureates, and academics. JOSHA is also indexed in ROAD, e-journal.org and Scilit. The JOSHA Journal publishing software has been developed by JOSHA GmbH Services and licensed to the International Academy of Sciences IASHA e.V. We also thank the Biothera-Roland Mertelsmann Foundation for the generous support that allows us to continue publishing qualified contributions for free.

International Academy of Sciences, Humanities, and Arts

(www.iasha.org)

The International Academy of Sciences and Arts (IASHA) is a non-profit association dedicated to the promotion of science and the arts and their interdisciplinary exchange. The focus of the Academy is the promotion of young scientists and artists.

This is done by:

- the organization of symposia
- the granting of scholarships and grants
- JOSHA, a journal with open access to the Internet, which publishes multidisciplinary and linguistically independent scientific and artistic work.

The association, based in Freiburg in Brisgovia, was founded in 2015 with the idea of facilitating the exchange of knowledge between various scientific and artistic disciplines and to support students, as well as young scientists and artists.

JOSHA's publication, the Journal of Sciences, Humanities and the Arts (www.josha-journal.org), plays an important role and includes the following main ideas:

- Knowledge that is not communicated / published is lost knowledge
- Multidisciplinary, multilingual and freely accessible.
- Internet-based textbooks for low-income countries.
- Global communication without linguistic restriction.

The international team is headed by Prof. em. Dr. Drs. H.c. Roland Mertelsmann and Prof. Dr. med. Gerhard Steinmann from the different faculties and sponsors together.

Benefit for members and others:

- Subscription to JOSHA, regular information about the latest releases at JOSHA.
- Invitations to exclusive events.
- There is no fee for own publications at JOSHA.
- Personal contacts with scholars and winners.

Support IASHA's ideas and become a member!
